

The SmartRock wireless concrete sensor recently announced by Giatec has received significant interest from the construction industry. This novel sensor is being used in various important projects in Canada and the US for the quality control of concrete in new structures. Ottawa Citizen covered the story in their newspaper published on October 2, 2015.

Please read more here.